... I want to use one of those. Simple as that. The page loads, the correct CSS is loaded. I do not get any error. What do I need to look out for? Anyone? I have been trying to find an answer in the forum. Nothing has helped. A: I think if you have an issue while debugging, it is a good idea to use FireBug with browser developer console. To see what is loading in your page you can use this to check for 404's or errors. For standard errors you may just use error console in FireFox. I hope these tools will help you. Changing mechanisms of power output from the upper and lower limbs during motor learning. This study examined the mechanisms underlying power output from upper and lower limb muscles during motor learning. We hypothesized that the upper-limb vs. lower-limb muscles would show changed performance due to differences in mechanism of learning. Changes in motor performance were examined from day 1 (D1) to day 4 (D4) in four groups: simple and complex motor learning via the upper or lower limb (n = 11). Upper-limb complex motor learning showed significantly higher hand-grip power and ankle-power values at D4 than on D1 (p < 0.05). More than one fragment activity, getting data from first fragment from second fragment I have three fragment activities, lets call them fragment_a, fragment_b, and fragment_c. The fragment_a contains data that I need to pass to fragment_b and fragment_c. Now fragment_b needs to pass data to fragment_c. And fragment_c needs to pass data back to fragment_a. So I have data inside a static variable and I'm trying to create a handler that will bind with all fragments. In fragment_a I have: FragmentHandler binding = new FragmentHandler(this); In fragment_b I have: binding.setData(); And this is the FragmentHandler class: public class FragmentHandler extends Fragment { public FragmentHandler(FragmentActivity activity) { super(activity); }
